Senior Procurement Manager (m/f/d)

Description

CARNEADES – We are a strong team of internationally experienced consultants who help shape our clients' project management. As specialists in the field of renewable energies, especially onshore and offshore wind, fuel switch and hydrogen, as well as grid connections, we support our clients with our best practice know-how. Become part of a dedicated team that leads large industrial projects to success as Senior Procurement Manager (m/w/d) in a permanent position (full-time).

Responsibilities

- You develop and implement procurement strategies for complex projects. The monitoring of "lessons learned" from other projects is as much a part of your area of responsibility as regular and targeted reporting
- You draft contracts in close cooperation with the legal department
- You will be responsible for EU tenders including qualification of suppliers
- You will cooperatively and proactively conduct risk assessments and holistic market explorations with the aim of developing an effective strategy, including documentation
- You will make the selection of bidders, negotiate and present procurement decisions to management
- Supporting the contract management department in the negotiation of supplements and in the search for solutions to conflict situations with suppliers is part of your duties
- You will supervise and develop supplier management

Qualifications

- You have a university degree (or equivalent), preferably in economics, renewable energy, industrial engineering, business administration, supply chain management, procurement, international purchasing management or similar
- You have at least five years of professional experience (preferably in the field of renewable energies)
- You are a strong and empathic negotiator
- You can demonstrate the required technical understanding
- You have the legal knowledge to draft local and international contracts (e.g. SektVO, BGB, VOB, FIDIC Yellow)
- You are a team player and have the ability to assert yourself
- You are responsible and think entrepreneurially
- Fluent German and English (written and oral) and willingness to travel complete your profile

Job benefits

- Flexible working hours and a high degree of personal responsibility
- Modern office space in Hamburg's City Nord incl. foosball table and roof terrace for joint lunch breaks and after-work events
